

R&D Labs Technical Branch (DRJ)

Provides engineering technician support to the Center's aeropropulsion and space projects in the laboratories supporting Materials, Structures, Communications, and Instrumentation and Controls Technology projects. Support includes: collaboration with the research customers to develop the test matrix and test schedule, and installation of the test article and associated hardware; operation of the test facilities; and installation, calibration, and operation of instrumentation and data acquisition systems.

